INSTRUCTIONS FOR AUTHORS

In order to achieve uniform presentation and to avoid unnecessary delays, all authors are requested to follow the next guidelines.

- FARMACIA publishes original papers in English. The following fields are covered: discovery papers, clinical papers, and papers on various aspects of pharmacology, including animal experiment, clinical experience, delivery systems and dispenses of drugs, and additional topical research. The papers are intended to be of interest to pharmacology, metabolism, and toxicology.

- Articles are considered for publication depending on: scientific value and originality of the research.

- Manuscripts are considered acceptable if the text is written in English and presents new and significant information.

- Manuscripts must be submitted in electronic form by e-mail to the address of the corresponding author. Authors must indicate that the manuscript is original and has not been submitted or published elsewhere.

- Manuscripts must include: title, name, address, phone number and e-mail address of the corresponding author.

- Manuscripts for FARMACIA should be submitted online at the farmaciamagazine.com portal. The corresponding author, who is generally the corresponding author, is responsible for the manuscript during the submission and publication process. The corresponding author must ensure that all eligible co-authors have been included in the author list and that they have read and approved the submitted version of the manuscript.

- Manuscripts will be reviewed in Microsoft Word format. Times New Roman font size 14, in double-space, including all cited references. All sized papers will be a maximum of 2 margins.

- Manuscripts should be structured as follows:

Title. The title of the article should be concise and representative and must be drawn up in both Romanian and English. (If none of the authors is Romanian, the editorial team can provide a translation for the title and abstract.)

Abstract. Not exceeding 300 characters and 3-4 keywords, both must be written in Romanian and English.

Introduction. A brief introduction to the subject of the article. The introduction should be provided.

Materials and Methods. Section will include the conditions of the experiments, the materials utilized, the technique, the results, the conclusions and the discussion (if any). Each table should have a brief, specific, descriptive title. The description of the materials and methods shall be presented in the normal manner. The diagrams and graphics and photographs, named “Figures” will have Arabic numerals and, when possible, letters. The Unit System will be the International System of Units. Small quantities containing figures of insufficient quality cannot be accepted. Conclusions. Section on the basis of the results obtained. The references will be ordered alphabetically in the text, reference numbers, references to be placed in square brackets (except the first, placed on the punctuation for example: [1],[1]-[3])

Citation Policy.

References used have to be adequate, accurate and have to reflect the used materials and other sources. The cited works should not be transposing in excess self-evaluation of their own work or their friends, peers or institutions publishing or advertising data. Abbreviations should be defined at the first mention and thereafter applied consistently throughout the article. The abbreviations and the measuring units will be used in agreement with the valid standards. Do not use footnotes.

Ethics and Guidelines.
